Factsheet series:
Ways to use NGR data.

COVID-19 compliant deliveries

At NGR we aim to reduce administration and duplication across the supply chain while delivering a simple, secure and streamlined online business register for Growers throughout Australia.

With the Agricultural industry determined essential operations by the Australian Government during COVID-19 restrictions, many growers will continue usual operations. The use of NGR data and the myNGR card is an ideal way to assist with observing physical distance measures while still receiving vital information with deliveries.

How your team can use NGR more effectively in times of limited human contact

Using NGR as a delivery card during these busy and uncertain times can assist in your responsibility to observe social distancing.

Growers can SMS or email a web link (URL) of their NGR Card from their myNGR account to a weighbridge/sample stand with access to a company email or mobile.

Growers can send their relevant NGR Card details through by:
• Logging into NGR
• Clicking on the relevant Card
• Clicking the Share Card Link
• Send to the delivery site's email or mobile number.

When sending the NGR Card to the delivery site, consider also asking Growers to include the below details:
• Truck Rego
• Contract Number
• Commodity
• Time slot
• Any other relevant information

That way when the truck arrives to deliver, the site staff know exactly what load they are receiving, who it is for and what card to put it against.

Other ways NGRs online offerings can support your operations:

☑ Receive automatic system notifications of changes to NGR Records (i.e. bank detail updates) or when cards become registered and active.

☑ Provision of ISCC Declarations electronically for SGA Members, removing the need for paperwork to be passed around or dropped off

☑ Completion of electronic Commodity Vendor Declarations, streamlining the process of paperwork being handled.
